

Cutter Suction Dredge Standard Windows

By Christian Shaw

We see many installs for cutter suction dredges and do many ourselves over the course of a year. I have recently come back from the field after interfacing a cutter suction dredge with a GPS, inclinometer and tide gauge. I just wanted to share what I would typically show a customer on their DREDGEPAK screen before I have departed there job site. Everyone has different preferences for what they want to see, but this is a good start.
